For example, 1) a rise in the price of chicken meat during the quarter started led to a decrease in space utilization rates from the previous quarter and a large number of pickups from cold chain storage warehouse. 2) Stringency in financial institution loan approvals impacted the slowdown in consumers' purchasing power of for automobiles, hence it resulted in a decrease the volume of automotive yard and management service. In order to resolve the problems, the Company has implemented a new strategy into the issue by replacing and increasing the proportion of seafood and tuna products in the stock constantly. In addition, the price of chicken price was currently in a better situation, which enhanced the utilization rate. The automotive yard and auto parts logistics management business has closed new projects from both existing and new customers, such as new EV brands import and logistics, and logistics of domestic EV production, all of which will start service operation in the second half of the year.
